Reference AO (JP 2001-283117) on Form 1449:

In this invention disclosed above specification, portable information articles and equipment is used, such as a cellular phone.

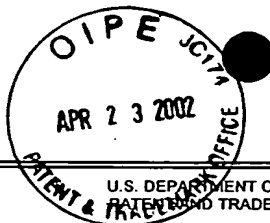

Ticket purchase is performed through communication circuits, such as the Internet, from portable information articles and equipment.

The server for distribution is accessed from portable information articles and equipment.

By operating portable information articles and equipment based on the contents carried by the homepage, and carrying out predetermined procedure, the data equivalent to a ticket is downloaded and this data is memorized to portable information articles and equipment.

Thus, a virtual ticket is purchased.

The invention disclosed in the present application is connected with the invention disclosed in the above published patent application, in using the portable terminal when purchasing a ticket .
